Mission

‘उत्तिष्ठत जाग्रत प्राप्य वरान्निबोधत’

Arise, awake, and stop not till the goal is reached!

This Sanskrit saying, found in Katha Upanishad, was popularized in the late 19th century by the visionary Indian saint Swami Vivekanand. It was his message to the Indians to get out of their hypnotized state of mind. The shlok was meant as a call to the Indians to awaken their ‘slumbering soul’ and propagate the message of peace and blessings given by the "ancient Mother" to the world. "Awake" also denotes the awakening of one's real nature and the consequent ushering in of prosperity. "Arise" was meant as a passionate call for national awakening to obtain political freedom for the country from colonialism, and to not to "stop" until the "goal" was achieved. This was essential in the social, economic and political fields.
